QUOTATIONS BY A FRIEND.

That life is long which answers life's great end .- Young.

I slept and dreamed that life was Beautywoke and found that life was Duty. Was thy dream then a shadowy lie?

Life is not an idle ore, But iron dug from central gloom; And heated hot with burning fears And dipped in baths of hissing tears And moulded by the shocks of doom To shape and use.

We live in deeds, not years; in thoughts, not breaths; We should count time by heart-thro'rs.

He most lives the best. Life's but a means unto an end, that end Green, Robt

Along with the day's solemn stillness That marks the decay of the year, When the North breeze has banishe There comes, like a ray of the morning.

A thought that my heart holdeth dear. A thought that no autumn can tarnish No drip of the rain can annoy, No flood in its fury can follow Neither tempest o'ertake nor destroy For it journeys like Love on his mission

Back there to the hills green and high, Where the sun seemed a part of our being

This thought with my memory goes, Like two butterflies glad and golden That on the same bud must repose, Returning to feast on the rose.

And though the sky loses the sunshine And the birds one by one disappear, This thought like a sweet strain of music Of one that my heart holdeth dear. -KATYDID.
